

Early season weed prevention

Today, I would like to discuss weed prevention. Weed prevention is an important step if you want to lessen the amount of maintenance of your landscaping.

Weed prevention does exactly that, it prevents weed seeds from germinating. Once you have weeds, it's too late for prevention! The best time to think about preventing weeds is early spring before you see them. I recommend using Treflan as a preventative. It is a granular product available in our shop in 40 pound bags. Follow the directions on the bag as far as coverage.

Another time to use Treflan is with new installations. Keep that job looking great from the start by preventing weeds. No one wants to see weeds take over their new landscaping, so use it when the job is finished. A little extra effort will pay off in the long run.
